TRAINING ANNOUNCEMENT

Watertown, Wisconsin

Hosted by the Watertown Police Department

Social Media and Open-Source Investigations

In the dynamic realm of criminal investigations, the internet plays a pivotal role, and criminal organizations increasingly leverage social media and Open-Source Intelligence (OSINT) in their activities. Enterprising law enforcement officers recognize the need for a comprehensive understanding of navigating major social media networks. Enter Nick Jerman, an expert instructor poised to equip officers with the latest insights and techniques in OSINT, ultimately saving valuable time and resources.

Gain proficiency in navigating, searching, and exploiting major social media networks. Uncover the secrets of lesser-known platforms, learn to link social media accounts to investigative targets, and harness the power of current OSINT websites and search techniques. "Social Media and Open-Source Intelligence Techniques" goes beyond the basics, delving into essential topics such as utilizing software and applications post-training, preserving data for court, and mastering the intricacies of crafting subpoenas and search warrants for social media data
