TRAINING ANNOUNCEMENT

Live Online

Closed training for Charleston Fire Department

Miranda & Beyond

A solid understanding of constitutional principles governing the admissibility of evidence in police investigations is crucial for successful prosecution. Violations of Miranda, involuntary confessions, suggestive identification procedures, or breaches of the Sixth Amendment can render key evidence inadmissible. This webinar will cover the Fifth, Sixth, and Fourteenth Amendment requirements for interrogations, confessions, and identifications, with relevant Supreme Court decisions and practical examples. Attendees will gain insights on conducting effective investigations while respecting the constitutional rights of the accused.

Tuesday, March 4, 2025 | Time: 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM EST

Constitutional Policing

Constitutional Policing training focuses on individual comprehension of constitutional limits and organizational leadership to ensure lawful and effective practices. This program equips leaders to strengthen policies, training, and oversight in areas such as arrest, detention, search, and interrogation. It emphasizes ethical standards, public trust, and compliance to reduce legal risks while maintaining law enforcement effectiveness.
